THE CENTENARY OF PROTECTION.

In this age of centennial celebrations, says the American Economist, we must not forget or silently pass over the hundredth anniversary of the passage of the first protection tariff act, or, as it has been termed, the second declaration of independence. This act was signed by President Washington, July 4, 1787, and the cause which led to the passage was of sufficient interest to warrant a brief summary of the proceedings.

Previous to the war of independence the industrial interests of the colonies were subject to the will of the English parliament. Manufacturers were discouraged in every possible way and the development of the country's resources was slow and difficult. But the spirit of independence had begun to assert itself; associations and societies were everywhere formed with view to the encouragement and promotion of industrial pursuits. The annual tribute paid to England by reason of the excess of imports over exports was so great that the wealth of the country was bound sooner or later to be exhausted.

When, therefore, the people began to appreciate the situation they saw that domestic manufacturers must be established and supported or they would soon be bankrupt. It is not surprising then that among the first petitions presented to congress at its first session was one on the subject of protection to American industries. This first petition came from the mechanics, tradesmen and others of Baltimore, and was soon followed by other petitions of a similar nature from New York, Boston and elsewhere. As the members of this first congress were almost all of the same mind as their petitioners the first important law passed was a protective tariff act. Its title was, "An act for laying a duty on goods, wares and merchandises imported into the United States," and its preamble was in these words:

"Whereas, It is necessary for the support of the government, the discharge of the debts of the United States, and the encouragement and protection of manufactures that duties be laid on goods, wares and merchandises imported."

To Arbitrate the Strater Strike.

Mr. Madison is supposed to be the author of the preamble. The bill was submitted by him to the house, and on the following day Mr. Fitzsimons, of Pennsylvania, suggested that the proposition of Mr. Madison should be converted into a permanent system. He said in support of his proposition to increase the duties:

I have prepared myself with an additional number which I will submit to the committee which I am continuing in the motion on your table; among these are some calculated to encourage the productions of our country and protect our infant manufacturers.

The motion of Mr. Fitzsimons was clearly a popular one, and in accepting the amendment Mr. Madison said:

I have no objection to the committee's accepting the proposition offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania. I think some of the propositions may be productive of revenue and some may protect our domestic manufacturers, &c.

Amendments were offered by others, and the law was finally passed with only eight dissenting votes. It passed the senate with a like unanimity, and its signature by the president was hailed with general rejoicing.

That this first tariff law was for protection as well as revenue there is no doubt; the wording of its preamble and various clauses, the arguments used by its supporters and even the slight objections advanced, all establishing the fact that it was not for revenue only. Moreover, upon the greater part of the articles the duties were seven per cent. for the purpose of revenue, but on others a specific duty of 15 per cent. was laid for protection. In short, everything points to the fact that it was the purpose of our fathers to make the duties protective wherever it was necessary to encourage manufacture. This was one hundred years ago, and all loyal and patriotic citizens are supporting still the great and noble cause of protection to American labor and industries.

A citizen of Atlanta, Ga., informs the Chicago Inter-Ocean that on the occasion of the dedication there of the new capitol July 4, "not one flag of the United States was displayed upon the building; the state flag of Georgia was displayed prominently, the flag of the nation was conspicuous by its absence." To which the New York Tribune interrogates as follows: Well, what of it? Hasn't a city like Atlanta a right to dispense with the star-spangled banner if it doesn't happen to fancy that kind of an emblem? Some persons have peculiar tastes. There's a man out in Montana, if the local paper do not lie, who eats powdered sugar on oysters. Besides, is not the holy doctrine of state right's to be respected? Besides, again if the action of Atlanta in this matter is criticized isn't the bloody shirt as good as waved?

Besides, once more, do not a good many gentlemen reside in Atlanta on whom reconstruction did not "take"?

The president has gone to Deer Park to get away from the Washington heat, but not to rest. He will work as busily, almost, at Deer Park, as he did in Washington, although he needs complete quiet very much.

The visible supply of grain reported by the New York Produce Exchange last Friday was: Wheat, 12,711,165 bushels; oats, 8,950,606 bushels; oats, 5,068,-713 bushels; rye, 806,601 bushels; barley, 377,951 bushels.

IN A SORRY PLIGHT.

Johnstown's Inhabitants Suffering Greatly in Spite of Efforts to Relieve Them.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 16.—More than six weeks have passed since the waters destroyed this place. Though the work already accomplished is considerable, much more remains undone. Only the lumber has been removed from the debris, while sand, bricks, dirt and stones form a mass several feet thick over the whole town. Railroad cars and wrecked houses that were washed away from the foundations are still seen in various parts of the town. The river, which still flows, is as bad in the bed of the stream now as it was against the bridge immediately after the flood. A few business houses have been erected, but these are mostly plank structures composed of floor timbers and rough studs for stability. People themselves have shelter for the present in one-story 10x20 houses without plastering or any other provision against the elements.

Judge Cummings is in town this morning and announces that he will be ready to begin paying out the money on Tuesday next. To-day the final register of the Seventh ward is taking place and the rooms of the board of inquiry are crowded. The mole of procedure, as outlined by the judge now, is to pay the people in cash. He has turned over the $500,000 which he received for this purpose to the Tammany Club of Pittsfield, and that gentleman will bring the money here and pay it out as fast as possible. He expects to dispose of about two hundred cases in a day and he will continue on the same plan until he reaches every case.

INVESTIGATING THE STRIKE.

Gov. Fifer's Committee Looking Into the Mining Troubles at LaSalle.

LA SALLE, Ill., July 16.—The Governor's committee to investigate the coal mining troubles here, composed of F. H. Wines, Judge Gould and Messrs. Wheeler and Phillips, of the board of railroad and waterway commissioners, are hearing evidence in this case. The miners, while low on wages, combined with dead work in opening and keeping in repair the underground roadways, the truck-store system and too many men employed, which reduces the average working time of all.

Representative miners from Spring Valley, Potosi, Brookwood, and LaSalle appeared before the committee for the purpose of testifying. C. J. Devlin, superintendent of the Spring Valley mines, was the only operator present. He charged the Wahbas, Illinois Central, Alton, and Eastern Illinois railroad companies with discrimination against the northern Illinois coal operators that they not come into the state. The railroads, he said, would regulate those railroads this company would resume operations; otherwise there was less hope, he said, for the company than for the miners.

To Arbitrate the Strater Strike.

Mr. McDevitt, of the board of arbitration, to settle the differences between the operators and the Strater miners will begin its session here Wednesday. The miners have selected as their member of the board Col. W. P. Rend, the Chicago coal operator, while the Coal Run Coal company has chosen J. E. Williams of this city, an ex-coal miner.

READY FOR JOHN L.

The $20,000 Stake Money Will Be Paid on Fitzpatrick's Order.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Kilrain's trainer, Charley Mitchell, having discarded the habiliments of the pugilist, arrived in this city disguised as a tramp. He entered Strite's hotel at Third avenue and One hundred and Eighth street, with a board of several days' growth, looking瘦 enough and his dear old friends would not have known him. An hour later he emerged from the hotel with a light suit of tweed and patent-leather boots. During the afternoon he visited several sporting resorts along the Harlem river, apparently having lost all fear of police interference. Among other things he visited Harry Hill's. He studiously avoided reporters. Mitchell came alone. His father-in-law, Pony Moore is expected tomorrow. A friend of Mitchell said that Mitchell and Moore had arranged to sail for Liverpool on the Cunard steamer Etruria Wednesday.

BURKE WILL FIGHT.

HIS APPEAL WILL BE VIGOROUSLY PROSECUTED.

He Professes to Have Strong Friends in Chicago—The Scheme of Some Betting Young Men—Crimes.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 16.—The appeal will be heard in two or three days before the full court and not before a single judge, as was originally intended. The full court has been asked to extend the term until July 22, which will enable Burke's lawyers to bring the case before the full court, as it is only necessary to give twenty-four hours' notice to do so. Burke is reported to be quite defiant and confident that the Chicago police have not enough against him to hold him in prison in Winnipeg. The expression of the judge that the evidence put in was not enough to convict of murder pleased him greatly. He talks about friends in Chicago who will see him through once he is there. The way he speaks would indicate that he does not fear being sent back. The appeal will probably be concluded on Saturday.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

Three Men Arrested for Trying to Beat a Pool Room by Tapping the Wire.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 16.—George W. Wilson, Edward Kilroy, and Frank Ward were arrested late yesterday afternoon, charged with tampering with a Western Union telegraph wire. The three young men have "played horses" in the Chinese pool room, and finally worked out a scheme to beat the pool room. The wire was cut and connected with two insulators in their room. The plan was to receive the message sent from the race track and then hold it until an agent of the combination had time to go to the pool room and buy a ticket on the winning horse. They rented a room in the building over which the wire runs from the telephone office to the pool room. The men were arraigned in the Municipal Criminal court and an examination will be held to-day.

Murdered by Their Landlord.

EMPIRE CITY, Oregon, July 16.—Mrs. Eatonshower and her child were murdered on the farm of John Gilman, near Coquille City, last Thursday night, and their bodies buried in a gulch near the house. Eatonshower was away from home at the time, and on his return Saturday Gilman laid it wait for him, but he escaped and gave the alarm. A search resulted in the discovery of the body of a woman and a man, and a grave already dug for the husband. The Eatonshowers were tenants of Gilman, who wanted them to leave, which they refused to do till their lease expired. Gilman and his wife have been arrested and may be lynched.
